Introduction

Practical Action – About Us

Practical Action is an innovative international development group, putting ingenious ideas to work so people in poverty can change their world. We work with communities to develop ingenious, lasting and locally owned solutions for agriculture, water and waste management, climate resilience and clean energy. We share what works with others, so many more people can change their worlds.

Our vision is for a world that works better for everyone. We believe that:

- Technology is a key enabler of human development; and that technological innovation has the power to propel us into a better world.
- All people should have access to, and a voice in, shaping the technologies that can improve their lives.
- A sustainable future for our planet requires a fundamental shift in the way technology is developed and used.
- Gender equality and the empowerment of vulnerable groups is an important prerequisite to achieving inclusive and sustainable development.

Our mission

To develop and demonstrate practical, technology-based solutions that enable women and men living in, or vulnerable to poverty, to lead dignified lives, ensuring local ownership and that the solutions work in the longer term without us. We aim to inspire change through the widespread adoption of sustainable technologies that work - socially, economically and environmentally, so that more people benefit from our learning.

Our Ambition

Our ambition is that by 2030 we will have transformed the way technology is used to improve the lives of people living in, or vulnerable to, poverty.

With 50 years of expertise, Practical Action has a strong heritage and track record of bringing communities and experts together to find practical, sustainable solutions to enable people to meet their needs, which work for both people and the planet. Technology features in everything we do. Working throughout Africa, Asia and Latin America, Practical Action improves the lives of around one million people every year through improved access to energy, sustainable agriculture, water, sanitation and waste management, and disaster risk reduction. In the context of Rwanda, our ambition is that the needs of rural communities and refugees are integrated in rural energy provision systems to increase opportunities for livelihood diversification and access to social services.

The Renewable Energy for Refugees project, phase 2 (RE4R II Project)

Practical Action secured funding from Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (Sida) to implement a four-year Renewable Energy for Refugees Project, phase II (RE4R II) in Rwanda, in close partnership with United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) and Ministry of Emergency Management (MINEMA). The project will use market-based approaches to address the energy needs of households, enterprises and communities in Mahama, Kiziba, Mugombwa, Kigeme and Nyabiheke refugee camps in Rwanda. The project will provide access to affordable and sustainable sources of renewable energy, and improve the lives of both refugees and the communities that host them.

RE4R II draws on Practical Action's considerable experience gained in RE4R I project, but also from other renewable energy programmes in developing countries – working directly with communities to deliver the best energy services and products possible. It also builds on existing tools and methodologies developed through our humanitarian energy work as part of the Moving Energy Initiative and the experiences of UNHCR and government ministries in Rwanda to improve energy access.

The project scope includes using market-based mechanisms to support local entrepreneurs, businesses and livelihoods within refugee and host communities, enhance private-sector involvement in the humanitarian sector, and ensure the long-term financial and environmental sustainability of investments. Fossil fuel options and free distribution of products and services are not covered under the remit of this project. All interventions delivered within the project will use renewable energy technologies and services to meet the climate change and refugee response objectives of UNHCR and the Rwandan Government.

The RE4R II Project implementation has an end date of 31 August 2026.

The project will be delivered in Rwanda through four technology focussed interventions:

Intervention I:	Solar home system for households and small enterprises
Intervention II:	Improved cook stoves and clean fuels for households
Intervention III:	Stand-alone solar street lights
Intervention IV:	Support business to upgrade their operations mainly on the Productive Uses of Energy

Request for Proposals Summary

Practical Action seeks to partner with a community mobilisation organisation / company for the delivery of community-level awareness raising activities relating to the RE4RII project interventions. This activity's purpose is to enhance end-user knowledge on the availability and benefits of renewable energy solutions offered through RE4R II, as well as other renewable energy technologies more generally, to support informed decision making for beneficiary communities regarding their energy needs. Activities will be delivered in refugee camps and host communities in Mahama, Kiziba, Mugombwa, Kigeme and Nyabiheke. The awareness raising activities should commence in April 2023 and be completed by July 2023.

Specifically, the activity aims to:

- Increase end users (refugees and host communities' members) knowledge of renewable energy products;
- Encourage the use of renewable energy products and services offered by the RE4R II interventions and selected suppliers;
- Enhance the sustainability of the interventions through increasing demand, behaviour change and enhancing community ownership;
- Encourage the productive use of renewable energy technologies for improved livelihoods.

Practical Action will contract an organisation who can demonstrate the most effective model for delivering awareness raising activities in the said project areas.

Examples of awareness raising activities include but not limited to:

- Localised knowledge product creation: appropriate knowledge products produced in local language (Kinyarwanda), for example: flex posters, flyers
- Participatory methods for community-level knowledge exchange: for example, community theatre, song and dance groups or/and focus group discussions
- Mass communication: for example, mega-phone announcements, local radio announcements
- Product demonstrations / exhibitions

Scope of Services

The selected community mobilisation organisation will conduct the following activities:

- Field-level consultation: Consultation with key stakeholders to understand appropriate methods for information sharing, knowledge exchange and behaviours change communication within the refugee camps and the host communities
- Assess any gender related issue around the renewable energy solutions use to design specific messages
- Design and development of localised communication method and materials: co-creation with Practical Action field staff and technical analysts to develop appropriate knowledge method and materials for dissemination
- Design and development of localised community-level participatory knowledge activities: co-creation with Practical Action field staff and technical analysts to develop community-level knowledge exchange activities.
- Delivery of agreed community-level awareness raising activities

- Data collection and reporting: proving details on activities and beneficiaries, beneficiary numbers (disaggregated by sex, age), participant feedback, etc
